The Opportunity

Blending historic charm with modern decor and convenience, this full city block landmark Property will provide a purchaser with the opportunity to carry-on a tradition of pride of ownership by continuing to support local and national office and retail tenancies. The Vendor, whom has held this asset since 1998 found success in tenant longevity by being flexible with tenant requirements as the demand and use of commercial space continuously evolves.

While this Property has always been tenanted with commercial uses, mutli-entry points, large floor plates including a full basement, oversized foundation and glazing on four (4) sides, this Property may be well suited for a multi-family reposition as this strategic location is located just steps from the underground concourse system in the heart of Downtown, providing tenants with a profuse variety of retail and professional services with the luxury of a multitude of transit and parking options at its doorstep.

Offered well below replacement cost, this opportunity to stay the course with commercial use or reposition and introduce a multi-family mix will serve a purchaser for many more decades to come.

The Offering Process

All interest to be reviewed and considered by the Vendor as received. Purchasers may consider this acquisition of the Property by way of a share sale, potentially negating the requirement of payment of Manitoba Land Transfer Tax.

DUNCAN STEELE CURRY

"The Toronto-based T. Eaton Company's decision to build a department store on South Portage between Donald and Hargrave Streets, was the catalyst for Portage Avenue's development into a major commercial thoroughfare. Prior to this, most businesses had located along Main Street.

Duncan Steele Curry had come to Winnipeg from Nova Scotia in 1874 with the second detachment of the North-West Mounted Police. He became a surveyor, and in 1884, the city's auditor. During this period, he had amassed a considerable amount of real estate holdings. One of his properties included the Spencer Block between Notre Dame Avenue and Garry Street on North Portage.

Built in 1880-81, the Spencer Block had deteriorated considerably by 1915. A recession and World War I had dimmed the city's prospects, and many developers had cancelled projects, but Curry went ahead with his plans to replace the Spencer Block. A two storey structure designed by J. D. Atchison was built by the John Sutherland Construction Co.

Curry eventually retired from municipal service and moved to San Diego in 1907. His family continued to own the building until 1969 and thereafter various corporate interests owned the property. During the mid-1970's there were substantial renovations to both the exterior and interior."

DESIGN

"The Curry Building features a wealth of ornamentation, finely crafted in a beige terra cotta accented with flecks of black and grey. This tinting gives the exterior of the block a granite-like appearance. The main façades, Portage and Notre Dame Avenues and Garry Street, are divided into wide bays separated by delicate columns with winding "double twisted" ribbons showing alternating plain and floral patterns along their lengths. Nestled in the capitals of the columns are carved figures. The arches above the second-floor windows are traced by relief terracotta vines.

Despite the numerous exterior changes, the Curry Building continues to be one of the most visually impressive structures on Portage Avenue."

CONSTRUCTION

"This two-storey building was actually intended to be the base of an eight-storey retail/office tower. Interestingly, its neighbour to the west, the Paris Building, was also completed in 1915 and similarly was to be built in two stages, beginning with the bottom five storeys. Because it was planned as part of a much larger structure, the foundation of the Curry Building is extremely sturdy – 30.5 cm (12") reinforced concrete walls. The superstructure is built on a steel frame and the brick exterior walls are clad on the south, east and west sides by terracotta, a glazed clay material attached to the brick walls with metal anchoring devices. The building measures approximately 81.3 m (266½') on Portage Avenue, 39.7 m (130') along Garry Street and 37.4 m (122½') along Notre Dame Avenue. Hollow tile is used for interior partitioning. The cost of construction in 1915 was $234,000."
